

Samwaad e Journal's Ethics Policy

Samwaad e Journal, works on vital publication professional ethics. Authors are always expected to hold on to basic standards of professional principles and manner that are universal across all areas of scholarly publishing. In the author's declaration, author/s guarantee that their work is original and has not been published elsewhere nor under process. All participants in the publication process, including editors, reviewers, authors, referees, are expected to obey the rules of basic professional courtesy, and respect the basic rules and guidelines that preside over the peer review and publication process. Samwaad's review systems follows screening of research work and plagiarism check with a blind peer review model, in which double referee/reviewer/editor assumes responsibility for evaluating the scientific veracity, clarity, and significance of the content and results presented. Falsehood, misrepresentation or selective reporting of data with the intent to mislead others is considered unethical, If found, Samwaad shall take appropriate action.

Samwaad provides feedback to authors to improve their efforts, to stay away from plagerism and to maintain the scholarly integrity of the journal's content. This is in agreement with Samwaad educational Society to assure the prevention of ethical misconduct, to reduce the rising problems in academic publications.
